LAST EDITION. THE LONDON STAGE.

Sydney Grundy's "Bunch of Violets" Promises Great Success.

Patti Sings from Wagner, in a Concert at Her Castle.

Mrs. Langtry's Next Part—Mme. Ruppert's "Camille."

(Copyrighted, 1894, by the Associated Press.)
LONDON, April 28.—With the exception of the Haymarket's premier, the week's theatricals have not been marked by the production of a novelty. The Haymarket novelty was the first production of Sydney Grundy's play, "A Bunch of Violets," a revised version of the author's "Mammoth," which was founded on Octave Feuillet's "Montjoye." Beerbohm Tree's production was generally commended, the acting of Mrs. Tree was received with a chorus of praise. "A Bunch of Violets" promises to be a genuine success, and the first real success which Mr. Tree has had since he produced "The Dancing Girl."

The leading houses continue doing good business under the continual patronage of the Duke and Duchess of Teck and other members of the royal family.

Mme. Adeline Patti gave a large party, on Thursday last, at her Welsh castle, Craig y Nos. She appeared in her private theatre as a singer in a ballet d'action, entitled "Fidelity," arranged by Sir Charles Hallé. Mme. Patti sang "The Last Rose of Summer" with fine effects, obtained by a new organ, which has just been erected at the back of the stage.

During the miscellaneous musical programme Mme. Patti sang a scene of Wagner, and Niccolini accompanied her upon the piano.

The management of the Empire Theatre is negotiating with Sir Arthur Sullivan to write the music for the new ballet intended for that place of entertainment. This will be Sir Arthur Sullivan's first venture in variety theatres, and it will furnish another instance of the tendency to draw upon high-class composers for theatrical and musical music.

The second part of Shakespeare's "Henry IV." was revived at Stratford-upon-Avon on Friday in connection with the memorial performances for the first time in England for twenty years.

The many contradictory reports circulated as to the reappearance of Mrs. Langtry in London, after her prolonged stay on the Riviera, have been finally set at rest by the announcement that she has been engaged for the leading part in the new play by Messrs. Robert Buchanan and Henry Murray, which is shortly to be produced at the Opera Comique. That no effort will be spared by the management to remove the stigma of ill-success attaching to the theatre is sufficiently proved by the strength of the cast, which includes besides Mrs. Langtry, Miss Rose Leclercq and Messrs. Fred Kerr, W. Herbert and C. Little. The new play is a modern comedy in four acts, and the subject is treated on most up-to-date lines.

The following is a general idea of the plot: Mrs. Dudley, the character which will be played by Mrs. Langtry, is deeply attached to her husband, but she is plagued by his excessive preference for another woman. She, consequently, devotes herself entirely to society, and in a short time becomes famous as one of the leading beauties of the day. She has many admirers, among whom is a certain Capt. Belton. (Mr. Fred Kerr.) The relations between Mrs. Dudley and the Captain are purely platonic, and the husband is completely satisfied with the situation. The husband is a man of means, and the Captain is a man of means. The husband is a man of means, and the Captain is a man of means.

Mr. Hittie, the enterprising managing director of the Aquarium, is arranging for a revival of the old May Day sports, which have completely disappeared. The sports consisted in climbing the greasy pole, in obstacle races of every kind (through swinging tubs, under tar-paulins and nets, over hurdles and under gates), sack races, hoop races, donkey races and similar pastimes will be faithfully reproduced at the Aquarium, together with the May pole dance, which the Puritan fathers denounced on account of its pagan origin, and the ceremony of crowning the Queen of May. The queen will be selected from among the school girls of London, and (standing by her court of balderers, rumpsters, guards, fools, Morris dancers, jacks-in-the-green and maids of honor), will be solemnly crowned by a lady representing Britannia.

A good deal of uncertainty still exists in regard to the production at the Court Theatre of Clement Scott's adaptation, in three acts, of Dumas's "Denise." Sir Augustus Harris holds the rights of the play and, it is said, insists that it must be put on for a six weeks' run.

certain, whereas the syndicate behind Miss Olga Netherole is, not unnaturally, averse to commit itself in this way. If everything turns out satisfactorily Lewis Waller will play the hero and George Hawtry and Miss Eame Beringer, who will have to relinquish her part in "The New Boy," will also be allotted important roles.

It is an established custom for London managers to take down their companies at least once during the run of a successful play to the Crystal Palace and Brighton, playing at a matinee and returning to town in time for the usual evening performance. Thursday afternoon is set apart for these flying visits to the Crystal Palace, and Tuesday afternoon for those to Brighton.

Birmingham, it appears, will also be taken into account in this respect in the future. Not long since Beerbohm Tree gave a matinee at the chief theatre there with the Haymarket company, and now on May 8 Mr. Wyndham is to follow his example with "An Aristocratic Alliance."

Mme. Anna Ruppert will appear as Camille in "La Dame aux Camélias" at a matinee at the Prince of Wales's Theatre on May 3 in aid of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The Armand is to be Mr. S. Bowkett, of the Daly company.

A matinee recently given at the West Theatre, Albert Hall, by Messrs. John Gray and Andre Raffalovich, two disciples of Oscar Wilde, was chiefly remarkable for the number of theatrical celebrities in the audience. These included Mary Moore, Florence St. John, Winifred Emery, Letty Lind, Olga Brandon, Violet Vanbrugh, Charles Wyndham, Cyril Maude and Weedon Grossmith.

Much interest centres in the production to-night, at the St. James's Theatre, of "The Masqueraders," a new play in four acts, by Henry Arthur Jones, which succeeds "The Second Mrs. Tanager."

BIT THE ENTIRE FAMILY.
Mr. and Mrs. Kohler's Desperate Struggle with a Bulldog.

VINELAND, N. J., April 28.—August Kohler, a farmer near Melville, kept a savage bulldog as a protection to his wife and three children when he was away from home. The dog was in an ugly mood yesterday morning, and when the children went into the yard to play, it growled and barked so fiercely that they were obliged to leave the yard. The dog was so savage that it bit the children, and the children were so badly hurt that they were taken to the hospital. The dog was so savage that it bit the children, and the children were so badly hurt that they were taken to the hospital.

Killed a Mad Dog.
HILLSDALE, N. J., April 28.—John T. Haring, a farmer living near Tappan Station, killed a mad dog with a pitchfork yesterday after it had bitten two of his cows. Recognizing the dog as being a member of the "Bully" breed, he shot it with a shotgun. The dog was so savage that it bit the children, and the children were so badly hurt that they were taken to the hospital.

EXAMINERS STILL AT WORK.
No Statement of the Harlem Bank's Condition Yet Ready.

A Receiver May Be Applied for After the Investigation.

Everything is quiet at the Harlem River Bank this morning. Examiner Barker is busy going over the bank's books, and he stated that he would not finish his examination before noon.

All the bank's cash, amounting to about $50,000, principally in specie, was carried away in a grocer's wagon and deposited in a downtown bank to the credit of St. Paul.

Cashier Hinkley denied emphatically this morning the intimation that there was any scandal connected with the bank's difficulties. Bank Examiner Judson will not say yet whether application will be made for a receiver.

The new manager of the Harlem business man went into the bank this morning to get some money to pay her butcher's bill. Her husband, who has a large balance at the bank, is a out of town, and she was without any money at all. She was greatly disappointed when she found that the bank could give her no assistance.

Weather Forecast.
The weather forecast for the thirty-six hours ending 5 P. M. to-morrow is as follows: Fair; stationary; temperature; southwesterly winds.

The following record shows the changes in the weather during the morning hours. At 10 A. M. the thermometer at Perry's pharmacy: 5 A. M., 61.6 A. M., 61.9 A. M., 62.15 P. M.

RETURNED HIS RING.

Miss Maude Alice Burke Will Not Be Princess Poniatowski.

She Does Not Mourn, but Sings All the Time Now.

Col. Tichenor Says that He Broke the Engagement.

At 8 o'clock this morning a pretty Saxon maid in Gen. G. Horace Carpenter's home, where Miss Maude Alice Burke is a guest, answered the door. She was humming the "King of Thule." She had apple cheeks and yellow hair. She wore a pink petticoat with a white apron and a scrap of mull on her glossy head. Her beauty is not the ideal type in Prince Poniatowski's set, but she was good to look upon.

A breakfast tray with a pot of coffee and a slice of lemon and a glass of toast ornamented the card-table. "Miss Burke," she said, with a courtesy, "is not up so soon. I take her her coffee. I will speak to her what you like."

"Please ask Miss Burke when she will marry Prince Poniatowski." She went upstairs with the tray in one hand and her pink petticoat in the other, and the soft notes of the sweet, sad love-song followed her.

When she came to the drawing-room she was as bright as a jar of stick candy. "Miss Burke says to you she will marry Prince Poniatowski never."

"Was she sorry when she said it?" "Oh no, she was very happy. She was singing. She sings very much since."

"Since when?" "Since it is all over—since the Prince goes away—since the ring goes back—since she has broken the engagement."

There is great rejoicing in the Tichenor and Carpenter families. Col. and Mrs. Tichenor and Miss Burke sail for London early in June.

Col. Tichenor was at the opera last evening, and after supper was one of the many merry groups that went to see the warbling artists set sail at 2 o'clock. He is reported to have said in princely fashion:

"The engagement is broken through no fault of mine. Miss Burke is a very sweet young lady. She did not wish to be my wife, but still think that she is a very sweet young lady."

If the Prince decides to remain East he will have a great deal to do. Already he has had a "bushel of invitations from people who are going to try to make Newport as gay as it was that summer when the Duke of Marlborough was the lion."

Col. Tichenor, Miss Burke's stepfather, called at "The Evening World" office this afternoon to make a statement in regard to the breaking off of the engagement.

He has always been opposed to this match, he said, "and the match was really broken off some time ago, although the intention was to keep the matter quiet as long as possible. Miss Burke remained in New York."

It was not until last evening, however, that the matter was definitely settled between myself and Prince Poniatowski. We had an interview, which was perfectly private, and we have come to an amicable agreement.

I may say that while the engagement was in being I was very much interested in the relatives of the young lady, for reasons that I do not care to state, no reason being given for the breaking off of the match. So far as Miss Burke is concerned she is perfectly contented, and does not make any complaint of any kind.

There is nothing more to say about it. The instrumentality of any of our friends has been given to the affair. But this has come about entirely without the instrumentality of any of our friends. The stories were first circulated in California, and when the rumors once got out there they were trying to stop them.

It is a fact, however, that the engagement was actually broken and a mutual understanding arrived at some weeks ago, and it only required an interview with the Prince to finally dispose of it. Miss Burke is free, and I think I can say there is no feeling whatever on the part of the Prince.

OHIO TROOPS CALLED.

Coxeyite Army Defies the Civil Law at Mount Sterling.

A Martial Jeered at When He Told Them to Leave a Train.

No Baltimore and Ohio Freight Has Gone Through in Two Days.

(By Associated Press.)
MOUNT STERLING, O., April 28.—Detectives Mahoney, Murphy, Bauer and Schlessinger, with a posse of 100 men, arrived here on a special train from Columbus at 1 A. M. Their purpose is to drive Galvin's 285 Industrials off the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's property.

Gov. McKinley has sanctioned this movement. Galvin's army is camped behind the stolen freight train and has guards on either side of threats to burn the Fourteenth Regiment armory here brought the local militia out to guard their building.

When Detective Mahoney ordered the Galvin men to surrender the captured train, the Coxeyites jeered at him and refused to leave. The detective did not attempt to use force, but at once telegraphed to the Governor for help.

COLUMBUS, O., April 28.—Gov. McKinley has ordered Battery H, of this city, Capt. Frank T. Stewart, to go to Mount Sterling to clear a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train of Coxey men in possession of the train.

The Governor also ordered Companies B, C and F, of the Fourteenth Regiment, O. N. G. Co., of this city, to proceed to Mount Sterling. These are all Columbus companies, and with the battery will consist about 150 men. Co. G. of this city is at Chillicothe, but has gone home.

The Governor's action is based on the fact that S. P. Peabody, General Agent, and Supt. Graham, of the B. and O. Railroad, said they had not been able to get a freight train through Mount Sterling for two days, and that the Sheriff of Madison County, with one company of the Fourteenth Regiment, right in Mount Sterling and at his disposal, under the law, had refused to be afraid to act. This Mount Sterling company has about thirty men.

The train of soldiers at 11:35 A. M. pulled out for Mount Sterling. Six Coxeyites were on the rear car. Six Coxeyites were on the rear car. Six Coxeyites were on the rear car.

COXEY'S OWN AT ROCKVILLE.

Joined There by the Philadelphia Contingent.

(By Associated Press.)
ROCKVILLE, Md., April 28.—The Coxey army, with banners raised, with bugle and band playing and with flags flying, moved into this village about 10 o'clock this morning. They were met at the outskirts by the Philadelphia contingent, which escorted the Coxey people to the fair grounds where all went into camp. "Unknown" Smith's seceding contingent was not on the grounds, and he has made no trouble.

The army of commonwealth slept last night with John Wheeler and his men, who were at the fair grounds. The march from Frederick thus far has been through hamlets only, and the Coxeyites are feeling the effects of poor diet and their spirits have declined in consequence of the march.

The army started on its march here about 10 o'clock. The march from Frederick thus far has been through hamlets only, and the Coxeyites are feeling the effects of poor diet and their spirits have declined in consequence of the march.

Maintenance for these men all summer is the grave question which now confronts the army. The army depends on the public for support and that he can't personally afford to maintain the army. The army depends on the public for support and that he can't personally afford to maintain the army.

A COXEY DESERTER.

Aged John Fish Sent to the Island for Acting Suspiciously.

John Fish, sixty years old, who said he was a deserter from Coxey's army, was sent to the island for six months by Justice Martin in the Tombs Court this morning. He was charged with acting in a suspicious manner in the court-yard of the Mariners' Church, 4 Oliver street, last night.

The church closed about 10 o'clock, and shortly afterwards Rev. John C. Fogg, the pastor, heard a crash at a lower window, which led into the office. Fish was found in the yard, and said he had climbed the fence, which surrounded the court, but this he could not have done.

Fish said he joined a Coxey contingent in St. Louis. There were about 200 delegates, and all went well until the trouble commenced to arise in various parts of the country. Fish stayed with the army until last Tuesday, when he deserted, because he was afraid he would be arrested when they reached Washington.

THIRTEEN MINERS KILLED.

Cable Breaks and Sixteen Fall Down a Shaft.

Accident Occurred in a Bois Du Lac Mine in Belgium.

(By Associated Press.)
MONS, Belgium, April 28.—A terrible colliery accident is reported from Bois Du Lac, in the Mons District. While sixteen colliers were descending a shaft leading to a mine at Bois Du Lac, the cable broke, precipitating the whole party to the ground.

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning the cable broke, precipitating the whole party to the ground. The men were instantly killed and the remaining three were severely injured.

TRIAL OF ANARCHIST HENRY.

The Insolent Prisoner Accused of Complicity in Robberies.

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, April 28.—The trial of Emile Henry, the Anarchist, who caused the explosions in the Rue des Bons-Enfants and in the Cafe Terminus, was continued in the Assize Court of the Department of the Seine to-day. Examining Magistrate Meyer testified regarding the report of the official inquiry. This report showed that Henry was accused of complicity in several robberies which had taken place in the provinces.

M. Dupuy, a house decorator, testified that Henry, while in his employ, admitted himself for an hour and a half on the day of the explosion in the Rue des Bons-Enfants. When the witness said he did not believe that the prisoner could have deposited the infernal machine in the offices of the Carmaux Mining Company Henry interrupted M. Dupuy, crying: "I affirm that I carried it there myself."

Henry's attitude was as insolent as ever, and he seemed eager to assume the whole blame for the explosions. M. Ferron, a manufacturer, testified to selling Henry four kilos of chlorate of potash four days before the explosion. Henry calmly discussed the points of construction of the bomb with M. Girard and the official engineers. The experts are at variance as to whether Henry made the bomb or not.

EARTHQUAKE KILLS TWO.

Greece Continues to Be Visited by Shocks.

(By Associated Press.)
ATHENS, April 28.—The state of terror and distress caused by the recent earthquake shocks continues. There were several shocks to-day, but they were less violent than those previously experienced. At Drachmani, a village between Livadia and Arachova, two women were killed by falling walls. The ground is sinking in several places in the vicinity of Atlanta. Much distress and sickness prevails among the stricken people.

BOOKKEEPER FIFE DRANK SIX OUNCES AND DIED.

Fell in the Street and Was Taken to the Hospital.

The police were notified this morning that Albert Fife, of Fifth and Grove streets, Jersey City, had died last night in Chambers Street Hospital, from the effects of a dose of laudanum, taken with suicidal intent. His friends called at the hospital this morning and claimed the body.

Shortly before dark yesterday evening, Fife, who had been seen staggering along Greenwich street for some distance, suddenly collapsed and fell to the sidewalk just as he reached the corner of Canal street.

It was apparent to the people who gathered around that the man was not intoxicated and was suffering great agony. An ambulance was summoned and he was taken in it to the Chambers Street Hospital.

On the way there he said that he had taken six ounces of laudanum with intent to kill himself. He would not, however, assign any cause for this act, and after telling ambulance surgeon Taylor that he was sixty-three years old and a bookkeeper, he became unconscious.

At 7:45, shortly after his arrival at the hospital, he died without having regained consciousness. There was nothing on his person to tell of the hospital and identify the body. The man was wearing a dark suit, a white shirt, and a dark tie. He was of medium height, and had a fair complexion.

One of the men said that Fife had been missing from his home at Owen Farley's boarding-house, Grove street, Jersey City, since last Monday.

"He was the bookkeeper of the Windsor Trust Company, 65 and 70 First street, Jersey City," said the man. "I have no idea why he killed himself. The company does not think that his accounts are crooked, and as far as we know, he was not mixed up in any disreputable transaction of any kind. It could hardly have been the result of a love affair, as he was too old for that."

Andy Quirk, forty-nine and brood over this loss may have had something to do with his suicide. He leaves no children. Fife's wife died in Stamford, Conn., a few years ago, and he was one of them, I believe Edward, is at 123 Water street.

Deputy coroner Schultze viewed the body this morning, and granted a permit for its removal.

Immigrant Authorities Told to Look Out for Him.

The Department at Washington has notified the immigration authorities at Ellis Island to keep a sharp lookout for one Mowbray, who is supposed to be an Anarchist editor and agitator. It is not stated when he is expected or on what vessel. Dr. Senner says if he arrives at his island he will be put through a most rigid examination.

MAY DAY'S BIG LABOR PARADE.

Leaders Say 20,000 Men and 500 Women Will Be in Line.

SPEECHES AT UNION SQUARE.

Central Labor Union Will Not Take Part in the Celebration.

ONLY THE LABOR FEDERATION.

Lines of March and the Various Organizations Which Will Participate.

The Conference Committee on the May Day celebration put the final touches on the preparations last night, when delegates from all the trades interested met at the Central Labor Federation headquarters, 64 East Fourth street, and handed in their reports. The permits for the parade obtained from the police were exhibited, the routes freely discussed, a grand marshal and his aides appointed and replies read from speakers who will evidence the enthusiasm of the big mass-meeting.

Ernest Bohm, Grand Marshal.

Twenty thousand men, the leaders say, will be in line on Tuesday night, and about 500 women. The permits for the parade put the number at that figure, while it is believed that fully twice as many will be in the ranks. The first of the day will be the parade in some manner. The movement, which sprang from a simple suggestion at the International Congress, has been taken up and carried into every clime, until now it is universally recognized as the people's second Labor Day.

The first attempt to make the day a labor holiday in this city was in 1886, when the Harlem River Park was made to accommodate more than 2,000 people. In the same year, every city in the United States, wherever there was a branch of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, held, over 100,000 carpenters alone participating and demanding shorter hours of work. All the other trades took up the agitation, and as a result these trades, among others, won the day in this city.

Won the Fight for Shorter Hours.

United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Knights of Labor, International Brotherhood of Bricklayers, Plasterers, Painters, Ornamental and Operative Plasterers, about a dozen different unions, Elevator Constructors, and many others, have been taken up and carried into every clime, until now it is universally recognized as the people's second Labor Day.

All of these organizations did not fight for eight hours, but all fought for something and won. Those trades working ten hours a day before, succeeded in securing the eight-hour day, and others reduced the hours of labor from nine to eight.

Heretofore the Central Labor Union has taken an important part in May Day celebrations, but this year that body is conspicuous by its absence. The reason for this is that the Central Labor Union is not in sympathy with the movement. The reason for this is that the Central Labor Union is not in sympathy with the movement.

The call for a conference to arrange for the celebration of the year was sent by the Central Labor Federation, generally known as the Socialists, and while the Central Labor Union refused to send delegates, the call was answered by District Assembly G. K. of L., the United Hebrew Trades and the Progressive Union of America. These with the Central Labor Federation, have been working up the enthusiasm ever since.

Yesterday night the Central Labor Union held a holiday in any sense similar to Labor Day. Work will be carried on as usual but the parade and the mass-meeting at their trade headquarters and march in the parks are not to be considered in the parade.

Three Parades in One.

There will be, in fact, three parades. (Continued on Second Page.)
